to dr knack

I just want you to know. that I will not be coming back to therapy anymore with you.

I have for a long time known that your sexual acting out with me, is absolutely not acceptable.

For example..

Hugs so hard they left bruises, kissing me on the couch, and commenting on my clothes and body ... when I come in like " thats my favorite outfit.. t shirt, jeans and no makeup.. " in a sexual voice....

By the way, I threw up all the way home... the last time you did it.

It is devastating to me, that as you know my sexual abuse history.. i.e., being abused by people that I trusted, you could cross the lines of therapy with me.

Therapy is a sacred place

I trusted you, to be my therapist. and to never take advantage of me.

I am hurt and angry that you could act out on me. and break my trust in you.

I have had that happen so many times in my life,, but this time is different...

Today I am standing up for myself and saying
NO MORE!

I will not be returning to therapy with you ever again.. I am going off to work on my own magnificence.

I am not ever going to suffer with someone that was supposed to be trustworthy and broke my trust, with their own lack of integrity and honesty.

You crossed the line with me,, a sacred line, this has forced me to walk away from yet another abusive situation and, find my own power and magnificence.....
